Focus Verse

“By faith Moses, when he was born, was hid three months of his parents.” – Hebrews 11:23

Bible Story

An Israelite baby boy was born in Egypt during a time when Israelite male children were to be killed by throwing them into river. The rule was made by the king, known as Pharaoh. The boy's mother came up with a plan to keep him. She made a basket out of reeds, put the baby in it, then placed it in the river. The boy's older sister stayed by the riverbank to watch what would happen to him. Pharaoh's daughter saw the basket when she came to bathe. She saw the baby and felt bad for it.

The sister, who had been watching, offered that her mom could nurse the baby, and the princess agreed. The princess named the baby Moses because she found him in the water. From then on, Moses grew up in the palace. One day, when Moses was grown up, he accidentally killed an Egyptian who was hurting an Israelite. Pharaoh found out and got angry, so Moses ran away to Midian. Here, he met a priest named Reuel and married one of his daughters, Zipporah. Meanwhile, the Israelites in Egypt were suffering as slaves. They cried out to God, and God heard them.
