Focus Verse

“Thus saith the Lord, Let my people go, that they may serve me.” – Exodus 8:1

Bible Story

God told Moses to ask Pharaoh to let the Israelites go and worship Him. If Pharaoh refused, God would send a lot of frogs all over Egypt. And God told Moses to tell Aaron to make frogs appear using his staff. So, he did. Pharaoh's magicians were able to do the same. Pharaoh agreed to let the Israelites go if Moses asked God to remove the frogs. Moses agreed, and God removed the frogs. But Pharaoh changed his mind and did not keep his word. Then God sent tiny insects called "gnats" or "lice," but the magicians could not copy it. Pharaoh still refused to listen. Finally, God sent swarms of flies, but it did not affect where the Israelites lived in Goshen. Pharaoh still was stubborn to listen.

Later, Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron, and said they could worship their God in Egypt, but Moses explained how they would worship might upset the Egyptians. So, he asked to go on a three-day trip to worship in the wilderness. Pharaoh agreed, as long as Moses prayed for the flies to go away, but he said they could not go far. As soon as the flies went away, Pharaoh refused to let them go and worship their God.
