Bible Story

Do you have a toy that you really want? Are you saving up money in your piggy bank? In Matthew, Jesus tells us not to build up earthly treasures. Examples of earthly treasures are clothes, cars, toys, and money. These things will not last forever because they will all be gone someday. Now, this does not mean that we cannot own things like these. Jesus is saying that instead of focusing on the treasures of this world that will not last forever, we should lay up heavenly treasures.

How can we lay up heavenly treasures for ourselves? One way is helping people that are in need. If you see someone at school that is sad or lonely, you can cheer them up. If someone falls while you are playing on your school's playground, you can help them get back up. If someone did something wrong to you, you should forgive them. Another helpful way is praying for others and sharing the gospel with them. There are many things you can do to help others in need. And by doing these things, you can lay up eternal treasures in Heaven.
